

To Whom It May Concern,

I've worked with Deborah Arrington for well over the past decade. I've always found her insights to be a tremendous help. Our critiques to each other on our work have been fun, interesting, and always thought-provoking. I'll miss that.

Deborah has a unique way of culling out hot pieces of information from me about a teaser recommendation or the markets and to use in our marketing copy. We've come up with some interesting campaigns that way. I found her contributions during our brainstorming sessions invaluable.

Besides being a great writer and worker, Deborah is very easy to get along with. She always has a ready smile and we shared many laughs while working on copy together which made the atmosphere light and enjoyable.

As an employee of Daniel Rosenthal & Associates, Deborah knows the meaning of long hours. It wasn't uncommon to find her awake at midnight or 1 a.m.(Pacific Standard Time) working on copy or communicating with her clients and employer in Asia. But she understood the necessities of hard work and crazy hours to get the job done and done well.

If you'd like to talk more about Deborah in person, you are welcome to call me at 1-409-909-8846. (Even though it's a U.S. line, it still rings in Asia so I'll be 14 hours ahead of your time zone.)

While I'm going to miss our working relationship, I do hope that Deborah finds new employment that's deserving of her talents and I wish her the best.

Sincerely,

Loray Greiner, Publisher
Oil & Energy Investment Report